

I like Indiana's telephone privacy law as it is. Please leave it alone. Before the Indiana Law I received 12 or more annoying, unsolicited, and unwanted phone calls per month; now I receive one or two per month at most. Why does the FCC want to make blocking these calls more difficult? Leave Indiana's law alone.